

STATE of WISCONSIN

OFFICE of the GOVERNOR

Proclamation

WHEREAS; every year, Asian American and Native Hawaiian/Pacific Islander (AANHPI) Women's Equal Pay Day is observed on the approximate day into the new year that the average AANHPI woman in the United States must work to earn what a white, non-Hispanic man earned on average in the previous year, highlighting the institutionalized gender and racial wage gap in the United States and across the world; and

WHEREAS; a wage gap refers to an observed disparity in average annual earnings between full-time workers of different genders, races, or ethnic backgrounds; and

WHEREAS; according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the average woman in the United States working full-time earned around 83 cents for every dollar made by the average man in 2023, and once this gap is broken down by both race and gender, AANHPI women face a broad spectrum of pay disparities, reflecting the diversity not only within the AANHPI community but in the jobs and careers that AANHPI women hold; and

WHEREAS; while laws are in place on the state and federal levels prohibiting discrimination in employment and pay based on gender, these disparities persist in large part due to institutionalized discrimination in wages and the types of jobs that women—and women of color, in particular—are more likely to hold, which are often among the lowest paid; and

WHEREAS; achieving equal pay for all AANHPI women and increasing their representation in high-wage, full-time jobs is essential to the prosperity of Wisconsin's families and communities, as well as the overall economy; and

WHEREAS; today, the state of Wisconsin affirms the principle of equal pay for equal work and reaffirms its commitment to expanding employment and professional advancement opportunities for AANHPI women, as well as working towards a more just and equitable economy for all Wisconsinites;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Tony Evers, Governor of the State of Wisconsin,
